

Preface on the focused issue on the 2nd Cambridge International VATS Symposium

I am delighted to be the editor for this special issue of the Journal of Visualized Surgery (JOVS) about the second Cambridge International VATS Symposium. This now annual event allows participants from all over the world to share knowledge and experience with international key opinion leaders.

During the 2 days the mix of theoretical lectures and practical demonstration, together with the possibility of trying high level vats simulation, made the course almost unique in the current vats educational offer.

We would like to welcome you for the next course on the 14–15 October 2016.

Marco Scarci

Marco Scarci

Department of Cardiothoracic Surgery, Papworth Hospital, Cambridgeshire, UK.

(Email: marco.scarci@nhs.net.)

doi: 10.21037/jovs.2016.03.30

Conflicts of Interest: The author has no conflicts of interest to declare.

View this article at: <http://dx.doi.org/10.21037/jovs.2016.03.30>

doi: 10.21037/jovs.2016.03.30

Cite this article as: Scarci M. Preface on the focused issue on the 2nd Cambridge International VATS Symposium. J Vis Surg 2016;2:79.