Well-written review.

There are two phase III RCTs showing over 2 years of survival benefit in high risk patients treated with TACE after resection. The authors briefly mention them and then describe the limitations of this technique. I would suggest to elaborate more on this topic, since it seems to be related.

Reply: Thanks for your comment. The authors have elaborated more on the two phase III RCTs, as requested. Relevant changes have been made and are highlighted in yellow in the revised manuscript (Page 4).
