

Figure S1 Chest CT findings following SARS-CoV-2 infection. The patient tested positive for SARS-CoV-2 PCR test at an outside hospital on December 4. Upon transfer to our emergency department, chest CT imaging (A,B) was performed, revealing extensive areas of consolidation and exudative opacities in the lungs, superimposed on the patient's underlying usual interstitial pneumonia. These findings were consistent with a diagnosis of severe COVID-19 pneumonia.